

ICEV Update

July 28, 2006

- There is continuing progress in construction at the Masjid site. A visitor to the site can now see remarkable change to the building due to the recent work. Couple of pictures from the site are included. However, we have sad news to share with you about the schedule. The contractor has been asking for some approval of construction details from our structural engineer who has recently been non-responsive. As a result the contractor notified us that the end date for the contract has to be extended to the end of October. There will also be additional fees (approximately $22,000) to cover insurance and administrative services for the extended duration. Our project manager and architect are working tirelessly to determine if there is any alternative to minimize the affects of this road bump. If you have questions or input about any construction issues, please contact our architect, brother Afzal Ebrahim or our project manager, brother Arif Kazmi.

- Several volunteers spent a few hours at the Masjid site during the last weekend to maintain the trees that were planted along the perimeter of our property. There are significant undesirable growths around the trees. We need volunteers to help clean the landscape. If you are interested to participate in these activities please contact zchowdhury@cox.net.
- The Sunday Islamic School of ICEV will begin another year at church location from August 6th. Registration for each student to attend this school is $100. Please register your child by attending the school on August 6th at 11 AM. The school also needs volunteers. If you are interested please contact the school principal Sister Shabnam Huq at huq3@aol.com
